

ED.M. PROGRAM IN COLLEGE STUDENT AFFAIRS EXECUTIVE MANAGEMENT CONCENTRATION

- I. PROGRAM DESCRIPTION: The 30-credit master's degree program in College Student Affairs-Executive Management Concentration (CSA-EMC) prepares students for professional positions in student affairs at a variety of post-secondary institutions. Learning opportunities for students include combinations of classroom instruction, project-based learning, field experiences, internships, and individualized learning. The CSA-EMC allows full-time, mid-level to senior student affairs professionals to complete the program as part-time students. On-going full-time professional employment in student affairs will meet the program's aim to combine practice with coursework.

The CSA-EMC program has an applied focus—the integrated learning experience helps students develop the requisite knowledge, skills and work experience to be successful student affairs professionals and leaders. Student Affairs professionals work directly with students in a wide range of specialty areas that include, but are not limited to: housing and residence life, campus unions or student centers, student activities, volunteer student services, educational programming, counseling and advising, career development and placement, new student orientation, admissions and enrollment management, services for students from underrepresented groups, retention programs, assessment offices, parent and family programs, student judicial programs, service learning, academic advising, disability services, fraternity and sorority affairs, campus recreation programs, veterans services, cultural centers, and health and wellness services.
